The longest running American ferry service was started in Newburgh in 1743 and ran until 1963. It recently started again, taking passengers from the Newburgh Waterfront to Beacon, just over a mile away.

Route 218 that winds around the face of Storm King Mountain is the only road in New York State that has round-the-clock supervision to monitor rock slides that occur from the sheer granite side that drops into the Hudson River. When it was built in 1922, it was known as the “Most Expensive Road in the World” after 7 years of blasting the side of the mountain. It is also a scenic highway on the National Register of Historic Places, offering breathtaking views of the Hudson Highlands.

History & Culture

When Henry Hudson sailed his ship “Half Moon” up the Hudson River and into Newburgh Bay in 1609, he was the first in a long list of remarkable travelers to Orange County. These influential women and men determined the early history and culture of America. Travel back through time to the 1700s. It’s the end of the Revolutionary War and George Washington establishes his Headquarters at a stone fortress in Newburgh, high above the majestic Hudson. Explore a place so rich in history, it’s America’s first Registered National Historic Landmark. Witness firsthand our battle re-enactments, fabulous faires and one-of-a-kind festivals.

Washington's Headquarters State Historic Site

84 Liberty Street, Newburgh 12550
845-562-1195
Gen. Washington made this fieldstone farmhouse his Continental Army headquarters and spent more time here than anywhere else during the Revolutionary War. At this site, Washington created and awarded the original purple heart badge. In 1850, the property became our nation's first public historic site. Mid-April thru Oct. Wed-Sat, 10-5. Sun 1-5.

America's smallest forest has only one tree, an eastern cottonwood that's 302 years old. The Balmville Tree outside of Newburgh is on the National Register of Historic Places as well as the New York State Register.

The nation's most famous lexicographer, Noah Webster, was schoolmaster at the Farmer's Hall Academy (now Goshen Town Hall) in 1782. Several signers of the Declaration of Independence sent their children to this school. Because the country was at war, schoolbooks were scarce, so Webster worked on a series of textbooks that would give children a uniquely American education. The work changed his life and determined the course of his career.

Port Jervis was the first stop on the "Old Mine Road," known as the first 100-mile road in America. Tradition says the road was built by Dutch settlers who sought mines of gold and copper along the Delaware River Highlands.

The first European settlement within the limits of the present Orange County was established c. 1685 when Scottish immigrant Col. Patrick MacGregorie created a trading post at the site along the Hudson River known as Plum Point. The trading post continuously operated until 1720. Currently, the Orange County Parks Department manages the Kowawese Unique Area at this beautiful location. Kowawese (Kow-a-way-say) meant "place of small pines" to the Native Americans of the Lenape Nation who once lived here.

The Great Outdoors

Escape to Orange County and enjoy the abundant splendor of our natural resources. There's scenic rolling countryside, pristine lakes and two magnificent rivers.

To the east is the Hudson for boating and to the west is the Delaware for canoeing and rafting. In between is the perfect setting for just about everything you enjoy...golfing, tennis, fishing, biking, hiking, skating, skiing and more. Take your pick, it all awaits you.

Did You Know? - It's an Orange County Fact

Despite The Black Rock Forest's rich cultural history, the land remains relatively pristine due to the foresight of Dr. Ernest Stillman, who established it as a research and demonstration forest early in the 20th century. The forest was acquired by the not-for-profit Black Rock Forest Preserve in 1989, which set the region aside as a natural area for perpetuity.

Port Jervis was a port on the Delaware and Hudson Canal and is also known as the "River City." The town is named in honor of John B. Jervis, the chief engineer on the canal.

The 30-year battle to preserve Storm King Mountain became the basis for United States environmental law and brought national attention to the highest peak on the west bank of the Hudson Highlands.

Maybrook's development as a village owes much to the railroads, and in 1910 the largest rail hub in the East was built there. It stayed open until 1974, employing 1,500 at its peak

Did You Know? - It's an Orange County Fact

Remnants of South America have been found in Harriman State Park. This discovery is believed to be evidence of cataclysmic events that caused the continents to split apart over 600-million years ago. According to Rutgers-Newark geology Professor Alexander Gates, the rock outcrops found in Harriman State Park appear to be a good geological match for the type of rock in Brazil.

The Tuxedo dinner jacket originated in Tuxedo Park by the tobacco magnate Pierre Lorillard.

Goshen was the site of the hanging of the famous outlaw Claudius Smith, a British Loyalist who - along with the Mohawk Indian Chief Joseph Brandt - raided the countryside surrounding Goshen during the Revolutionary War. He and Joseph Brandt are said to have buried their many stolen treasures in the hills surrounding Goshen, and that Claudius is himself buried somewhere on the grounds of the old Presbyterian Church.
